Bucks Farms Are Fewer, But Bigger

By BOB REINHARDT
Courier-Times Staff Writer

(2nd of 5 articles)

From Tennessee to the New England states, Bucks County eggs are eaten for breakfast. Milk from the county's prize cows is delivered to doors in Philadelphia, Allentown, Trenton and the surrounding areas.

Vegetables picked on our truck farms are sold in Philadelphia and New York with Bucks County-grown flowers and ornamental plants. Newtown tomatoes go into Campbell's soup and juice sold in cans all over the nation.

These products are part of the $24,000,000 Bucks County farm yield, which has stayed at that level 15 to 20 years despite the loss of many acres of farmland to the homes, factories and business places that have invaded the county since 1950.

Farms Fewer, Bigger

Mechanization and efficiency have enabled Bucks County to hold its high production rate on fewer acres. Farms are fewer but bigger. From 1950 to the present, the number of farms dropped from 3,750 to 2,730. But the average farm, meanwhile, rose in size from 69.3 to 84.3 acres.

Dairy farming is the biggest phase of Bucks County agriculture.

Bucks dairy farms, in and north of the Newtown area, provide $5,900,000 worth of milk a year. Bucks ranks 14th in dairy production among Pennsylvania's 67 counties.

We're third in poultry farming, behind Lancaster and York Counties, with $4,800,000 in annual products. Poultry farming, mostly in egg production, is Bucks County's second busiest farm activity.

Next comes vegetables, mostly from Lower Bucks, including the spacious King Farms in Falls Township. Oats, wheat and hay sold off the farm is the fourth greatest Bucks product, with

Juke Box Owner Tells Of Beating

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Brooklyn juke box operator testified today three hoodlums beat his nose into the shape of a horseshoe when he refused to cut them in on his business.

The witness, Sidney Saul, still under special New York police protection, had tears in his eyes as he described the beating before the Senate Rackets Committee.

He identified his assailants as Ernest (Kip) Filocomo, Charles Panarella and Anthony (Dutch) Tuzio. The committee said all had served prison terms and now are facing a second trial for assault on Saul.

The witness said the beating took place in December, 1957, at the Wagon Wheels, a combination candy store and luncheonette in Brooklyn. He said he had been threatened repeatedly by Filcomo earlier and was told his body would be found "on the Belt Parkway."

Demand Payoff

He said Filocomo first approached him in May, 1957, on behalf of Lawrence Gallo, another juke box operator and organizer for the United Coin Machine Operators Association.

Saul said he rejected Gallo's demand that they become partners and that he sign up with Local 19 of the Federated Service Workers Union. The local was identified earlier as a bogus labor group and a haven for ex-members of Murder Inc.

Saul said he was twice lured to the Wagon Wheels by telephoned threats.

The second time, he said, Panarella and Tuzio met him there and demanded $500 or a cut of the machine's income. He said they were joined by Filocomo, who took off his coat and started punching him in the face.

As he pleaded with them to stop, Saul said, they would comment, "This fellow's an actor."

Union Leaders Called

Opening the second week of its investigation of juke box racketeering, the committee also planned to question six union officials and operators about a reported scheme to take over the coin machine business in the New York area.

The union men are Joseph Degrandis, head of Teamster Local 226; John Amalfitano, trustee of the Federated Service Workers Union. The committee heard testimony last week that Degrandis

The U.S. launched the first of at least four meteorological satellites today in a program to gain the first global picture of weather on earth. The experiment depends on two photocells which scan the earth's surface and cloud masses. The information is stored on a tape recorder, which will be "interrogated" during every orbit. The equipment is adapted to a 20-inch satellite shell. The sphere and all components weight 21½ pounds. The principal parts are (1) the photocell light shield. (2) the recorder. (3) Interrogation radio receiver. (4) Meteorological data transmitter. (5) Photocell. (6) Data electronics. (7) The tracking transmitter. (8) Mercury cell batteries.

Bullet-Shaped Missiles Off Successfully

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — A Navy Vanguard missile hurtled into the skies today bearing a 20-inch satellite on an historic new mission to study atmospere conditions that cause the earth's turbulent weather.

Immediate mission of the new earth moon was to measure cloud cover surrounding the earth, but one of the ultimate targets of such miniature weather stations in space would be to spot Atlantic hurricanes and Pacific typhoons.

An announcement was expected in Washington within two or three hours whether the satellite actually had achieved an orbit. The U.S. Army Signal Laboratory at Fort Monmouth, N.J., reported it picked up signals from the satellite some three minutes after the rocket was fired.

All Stages Fire

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced minutes after the 10:55 a.m. e.s.t. firing that all three stages of the bullet-shaped missile had fired successfully.

NASA said the Vanguard firing, so often plagued in the past by failures, "looked good."

There is one satellite from a previous Vanguard firing now circling the earth.

The slender 72-foot Vanguard burst from its launching pad in an apparently perfect takeoff. In 46 seconds it was lost in a heavy overcast but its power plant could be heard giving off a low rumble.

It was the tenth Vanguard project since the experiments in this series began May 1, 1957. There have been six previous firings in the Vanguard test series and three firings of Vanguard satellites. There are only three more Vanguard satellite firings scheduled.

Others to Follow

Today's firing was an important new scientific effort to find out what gives us the kind of weather we have on earth. Crammed into the 20-inch, 21½ pound sphere were instruments to scan the clouds, sea and earth. The intricate package represented the first step toward obtaining continuous mapping of the earth's weather system.

Tullytown Council To Leave Hall

By JIM GOODMAN
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Tullytown Borough Council vote last night to spurn the peace overtures of the Tullytown Fire Company and move out of the fire hall to eventually establish permanent headquarters.

Council voted 5-2 to move out of the fire hall by March 31 to temporary headquarters on Route 13. The building is one of Levitt and Son's rancher homes that was part of the Le vittown Home Exhibit Center.

Council indicated last night, that its land purchasing committee was negotiating with the Levitt firm for a piece of property near the Levittown Shopping Center and the Kenwood section of Levittown.

Municipal Building

The proposed site would be used for the construction of a new municipal building for the borough.

Tullytown Police Department has been using the temporary headquarters for two weeks. The rental fee for using the building will be $1,500. Council paid $1,300 to use the second floor of the Tullytown Fire Hall for borough and police headquarters.

A feud within the Tullytown Fire Company and political intrigues involving the fire company and borough council members was laid as the source of the move out of the fire hall, informed Tullytown residents report.

The trouble started last month when the fire department asked for an increased rent for the use of the fire hall. When council

Tullytown Probes Firing Of Bullets At Home, Business

Tullytown police are investigating two incidents in which .22 calibre bullets were fired into a Tullytown home and a business place.

Police Chief John B. Walterick said today that borough police are very concerned. He said it appeared the .22 calibre bullets were either fired by someone riding in a car or by boys who have .22 calibre rifles.

The first incident was reported Saturday at the Top Value Stamp store on Route 13 Tullytown. Three large eight by twelve-foot window panes were pierced at the store.

Last night a second incident was reported at the home of Vincent Laughlin 251 Lakeside Drive Levittown.

Laughlin found a hole in his bedroom door and a .22 calibre bullet in the hollow of the door. Police said the bullet entered the house through the east wall and then cut half way through the open bedroom door.

No one was at the store or the home when the shootings took place Chief Walterick said. He said it is possible that the shots were fired Friday night in both instances.

Chief Walterick pointed out that it is illegal to own a gun unless the owner is 16 years old and it is illegal to carry a .22 calibre gun except in hunting season.

Patrolman Pat Coia is assisting Chief Walterick in the investigation.

State Budget To Heed Tax Hike Urging

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Gov. David L. Lawrence plans to follow the suggestions of his tax study committee "closely" when he submits his biennial budget and tax plans to the General Assembly March 2.

The study group recommended that the state sales tax be increased to 3½ per cent and that its base be broadened to include liquor and beer purchases, automobile and appliance trade-ins, electricity, telephone and telegraph bills.

"I advised the committee that I plan to submit the 1959-61 budget to the General Assembly March 2, and at that time I will make recommendations on producing the revenue necessary to meet the deficit and to pay for increased governmental costs, including those which are mandated," Lawrence said in a statement released after receiving the committee's unanimously - adopted report yesterday. "I expect that those recommendations will follow closely the committee's suggestions," he said.

The group's recommendations called for new and increased taxes to yield an estimated additional 447 million dollars if they are enacted by April 1. The revenue would cover an anticipated deficit of 170 million dollars at the end of the current biennium May 31, in addition to meeting new revenue needs and financing the initial cost of paying a state bonus to Korean War veterans.

Navy Blimp Lands In Swamp, Burns

PINETOWN, N.C. (UPI) — A Navy blimp crashed and burned in a remote costal swamp near here today and four of its seven crewmen were reported missing. Three other crewmen were taken to a hospital in Washington, N.C., located near the mouth of a salt-water inlet just southwest of the accident scene, the State Highway Patrol reported. They suffered burns but their condition was not thought to be critical.

The injured were identified as Lt. Lynford May, 25, Oswego, Ore., AT Roy Lyon, 19, Ferndale, Mich., and AM3 Orville L. Moore McAllistar, Okla.

The patrol said the lighter-than-air craft, attached to the Glynco Naval Air Station near Brunswick, Ga., crashed at about 3 a.m. e.s.t. It burst into flames and set the woods on fire, attracting the attention of residents in the area.

Thomas Stancil, operator of a flying service in Washington, said he was first to arrive on the scene. He quoted one of the injured crewmen as saying he had been asleep when the accident occurred and had crawled from the wreckage.

The crash scene is about a mile from the nearest road in a wooded swamp area, Stancil said.

Lt. Cdmr. Grover Jones, public information officer at Glynco, said the airship was one of two being ferried from the Georgia base to the big blimp installation at Lakehurst, N.J. They left Glynco at about dark Monday night, he said.

"The accident must have occurred quite suddenly and with no warning," Jones said. "The other blimp received no emergency radio message and its crew was unaware of the crash."

The other blimp was continuing its flight to Lakehurst, he added.

Anti-Red Rabbi To Speak Here Tonight

Rabbi Benjamin Schultz, executive director of the American Jewish League Against Communism, will address the Levittown Civic Association tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the Levittown Community Hall.

Rabbi Schultz, called by President Thomas Horan of the LCA "an ardent foe of Communism" has been full-time executive director of the AJLAC since 1948. He has received national acclaim as a lecturer on various aspects of communism and is the recipient of numerous awards.

He has received awards from the New York State Catholic War Veterans, the New York County Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion and the Sons of the American Revolution.

The AJLAC is a non-profit educational organization. It is incorporated in New York and California. George E. Sokolsky, noted journalist of the New York Journal American, is associated with the league.

Dr. Schultz will discuss "the Public Apathy Towards the Problem of Communism." The meeting is open to the public, Horan said.

Mild Today, Tomorrow

There are less than five weeks of winter left and theoretically the coldest part of the season is behind us. Mild temperatures will continue today with a high near 45 under cloudy skies.

Normal temperatures this week will be 33 degrees, a one degree jump from the 32 degrees of last week, lowest normal average of the year.

Tomorrow's forecast calls for temperatures much the same as today with a chance of occasional rain.

Just to temper the weather optimism a bit, it is noted by the Weather Bureau that thet larges snow of last season fell on the first day of spring.

Many Here May Lose Trenton City Jobs

Lower Bucks residents who are civil service employes of Trenton may soon be faced with a dilemma: Either move back to Trenton or lose their jobs.

The problem came about after a Newark, N. J. court ruled that municipal employes of that city must live in Newark. Now it appears a similar law is on the Trenton books but has not been enforced since it was written in the late 1920's.

Some Trenton legal sources contend the "residence requirement" pertained only to residence at the time of appointment.

A separate ordinance could be passed, Trenton officials said, making permanent residence a requirement for the Trenton civil service jobs.

A city survey showed that 13 per cent of Trenton's 1,770 employes do not live in Trenton. It is estimated that about half live in Lower Bucks County. This does not include employes of the Board of Education. It is estimated 90 per cent of this group does not live in Trenton and could be affected by the new ruling.

Fire Chiefs Discuss School Bus Drills

The advantages of teaching school children how to leave a school bus in an orderly manner in case of a fire or other emergency, were discussed by the Bucks County Fire Chiefs Association last night at its monthly meeting at Hartsville.

Watson Lake, chief of the Midway Fire Company said fire drills are held monthly on the Central Bucks Joint School District's fleet of school buses.

Presides First Time

John Doster, Edgely, newly elected president of the chief's association presided for the first time since his recent election.

Yardley Fire Chief John Zlaylek, chairman of the mutual aid committee, said Bristol Fire Company, No. 6, is one of three companies in the county that have not sent in an inventory or appraisal of their equipment so that they can be called on in emergencies by nearby fire companies.

William Sottung, Newportville, chairman of the fireman's training school, said the chiefs are still looking for a permanent school site. The school may be located in Doylestown if ground is available, he said.

Fire Marshal Leonard D. Roberts, Trevose reported on recent state legislation, pertaining to firemen.

Porter Kills Two Women

NEW YORK (UPI)—A porter fired from his job in a Madison Avenue office at 10 a.m. today returned 30 minutes later with a rifle and killed two female employes, police reported.

The dead women, clerks for Marvin Fabrics, Inc., were identified as Lorraine Rosenberg, of 80 Brandt Place, the Bronx, and Elaine Fallik of 458 East 51st St., Brooklyn, both said to be between 20 and 25 years old.

Their assailant, Parnell Johnson, 27, a Negro, of the Bronx, was subdued by three male owners of the fabric firm police said.

They said Johnson had held the

Squad Aids Man Stricken On Train

A 73-year-old man was stricken with a heart attack while riding on a Pennsylvania Railroad train yesterday. The victim, Bernard Benson, Union, N.J., retired school teacher, was taken off the Philadelphia-to-New York train at the Cornwells Heights station.

He was given emergency treatment on the station platform by the Bucks County Rescue Squad. The squad gave him oxygen and then carried him to Lower Bucks County Hospital for further treatment.

Benson was kept at the hospital for several hours and then transferred to a hospital in Elizabeth, N.J. A spokesman at Lower Bucks said there was no room at the local hospital.

The train was held up about half-an-hour while Benson was being treated.

$1,200 Interest

Middletown Board Invests $200,000

Middletown Township School Board has invested $200,000 in 90-day government bonds to earn $1,200 interest, it was reported at last night's school board meeting.

The dedication date for the Carl Sandburg School in the township has been tentatively set for October. School board members received a telephone call recently from Sandburg in which the Pulitzer Prize poet said he would definitely attend the dedication.

To Use Field

Permission to use part of the athletic field at the Carl Sandburg School was voted by the school board for the Levittown Western Little League and Midget League teams.

Committee Named

A three-man committee to improve communications between the school board and the general public was named at the meeting.

School board members Irving Susskind and David Bernhart will serve on the public relations committee with John Bowers, an interested resident.

Citizens Group

School Budget Unit Named In Township

Four members of Bristol Township's Associate School Board were selected last night to serve on the Citizens School Budget Committee.

The committee was created by the Bristol Township School Board last week as a means of keeping the public informed of budget plans.

The Associate School Board was invited to pick "three or four" representatives for the committee. At a special meeting the associate board selected Don Loeber, Newtown Parkes, Herbert Seifert and Marguerite Long.

It has been predicted that a stiff tax will be necessitated by this year's budget. Last year the taxes were increased by 15 mills to a total of 76 mills. The increase brought protests from a crowd of 1,200 who jammed Delhaas High School last spring.

The budget committee was apparently appointed to head off such a mass meeting again this year.

First Meeting

Benjamin F. Stockett, Jr., school board president, said he plans to call the first meeting of the citizens committee Feb. 19.

The committee will consist of 12 representatives of various segments of the community. He added that he will announce appointment of the remaining committee members shortly.

Chrysler To Return To Full Production

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp., today set in motion plans for returning to full auto production next week, following settlement of the strike against Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co.

The strike, which began last October, had forced sharp curtailment in production of Chrysler Corp., cars because of a lack of windshields.

A Chrysler spokesman said Pittsburgh Plate Glass was expected to begin shipping glass on Wednesday, and that all the company's assembly plants were scheduled to be in production one week after the first glass was shipped.

Water Rates Talk Held

A committee of Bristol Township Commissioners met last night with a group of Bristol Borough councilmen and officials to discuss the proposed increase in borough water rates.

The Water and Finance Committees of Borough Council attended the meeting along with Borough Manager Ira Gates. Commissioners Eugene G. Kehoe, James T. Dunlavey and James D. Monte represented the township.

The commissioners asked the reason for the proposed water rate increase. A large percentage of customers live in Bristol Township.

A representative of Weber and Wilson, consulting engineering firm of Harrisburg, which represents the water department, explained the increase was needed to help finance planned improvements and expansion of the water plant.

The two groups of officials also discussed plans for coordinating fire fighting activities between the township and borough fire companies. Another meeting was set up to further the discussion

Expect New Scandals

The Jacob brothers were slated to testify along with another set of brothers who are juke box operators — Lawrence and Joseph (Joey the Blond) Gallo. The Gallos have been linked in testimony with notorious underworld figures.

The committee spent all last week exploring the use of bogus union locals and strong-armed tactics to discourage competition in the juke box business.

New scandals are expected to be aired later this week when the committee starts looking into some of the "factoring companies," or lending agencies, which operate in the coin machine field.

Kennedy said the committee would inquire into information that they made loans to "some of the leading narcotics and gambling figures in the United States."

station was resigned to send earthward data for only about two weeks, but if it worked properly others of more intricate design and long life were certain to follow.

NASA said the "primary objective of the experiment is to measure the distribution of cloud cover over the daylight portion of the equatorial orbit . . . and relate it to the overall meteorology of the earth."

Heads Scientific Team

Development of the cloud cover satellite was directed by William G. Stroud Jr., 36, chief of the astro-instrumentation branch of the Astro-Electronics Division at the Army Signal Research and Development Laboratory, Fort Monmouth, N.J.

Stroud headed a team of 20 scientists and technicians who built the electronic brain that was to scan the earth's surface and atmosphere from a vantage point out in space.

Y.M.C.A. Names Chairmen Of Special Gift Division

K. L. Johannsen, general superintendent of the Fairless Works, U.S. Steel Corp., General Chairman of the Y.M.C.A Building Fund Campaign, has appointed Warren F. Bietsch to serve as chairman of the Special Gift Division.

Bietsch left the industrial field and returned to educational work as Secretary of the Pennsbury Joint School Board in January 1958. His responsibilities cover the purchasing, payroll, and accounting sections of the Pennsbury Schools.

Bietsch, on accepting the chairmanship of the Special Gifts Division said, "There does not seem to have ever been a time in my life when I was not working in some field for the growth, development, and welfare of children and young people. Teaching, Parent-Teacher Association work, Sunday School endeavors, Boy Scout activities, the School Board membership, have all been a part of the past. They seem to lead naturally into a strong desire to try to help in an endeavor which will provide the youth of Lower Bucks County with another potential great influence for good in the Y.M.C.A.

Potent Force

"Our America of tomorrow will depend entirely upon how we train our boys and girls today. I believe the 'Y' can be a potent force in that training, and I am, therefore, glad to be able to do my part in bringing about the realization of a dream which many people in Lower Bucks County have had for many years."

Johannsen appointed Dr. Oliver Heckman, Regional Superintendent, Neshaminy School District, to serve as a vice chairman of the Special Gift Division. Dr. Heckman said, "I accepted vice chairmanship of the committee for the raising of money for the Y.M.C.A. because I believe that this organization is now filling and will continue to meet, an imperative need in the coummunity life of Lower Bucks County."

Lester D. Thorne, assistant cashier of the Philadelphia National Bank in the Bristol office, has also been selected to serve as a vice chairman for the Special Gift Division.

Mr. Thorne, a native Bristolian, long active in civic and community affairs, has been interested in the Y.M.C.A. since its inception in Bristol with the formation of a Hi Y club for boys.

He stated, "We have come a long way since then. The present and future needs of the ever-growing youth population in this area will be better met with a modern, central Y.M.C.A. building."

Another appointment is C. Percy Moon of Morrisville, Auditor for the Public Service Department of New Jersey for the past 51 years.

Moon, actively engaged in community and civic affairs, has a keen interest in youth.

Moon said, "A Y.M.C.A. building will offer many advantages to our growing youth population, in a complete program and facilities under one roof, in one central location, with easy access. We must provide for this future enrollment."

Bucks Farms

flowers and ornamental plants in fifth place here.

Best Future

This last category, including greenhouse farming, actually shows the best future, according County Agent William F. Greenawalt. About one and one-half million dollars worth of flowers and ornamental plants are now produced here each year, for fifth place in Pennsylvania.

"The price of land is increasing rapidly," Greenawalt explains. "This kind of farming provides the greatest income per acre."

As county agent, Greenawalt advises farmers in the marketing and production of plants, and the increased greenhouse farming has called for more of his counselling. When he became Bucks County agricultural agent in 1925, Greenawalt worked alone. Today he has a professional staff of four persons, which proves once again that farming is far from dying out in Bucks County these days.

Reports Say Demos Endorse Candidates

Sources close to the County Democratic Organization said that party endorsements for the May primary were set at a meeting of the executive committee of the party at th Fountain House in Doylestown last night.

The report indicated that endorsed canlidates were: John T. Welsh and Adolph Andrews for county commissioner, both are incumbents; Stanley Reichley, incumbent county treasurer for register of wills; John Dougherty of Bristol for County treasurer; Eve Horne Derr, incumbent for clerk of orphans court; Thomas C. Lamb, incumbent for coroner; and Mitchell Mitnick of Levittown for surveyor.

There was no endorsement reported as yet for clerk of the quarter sessions court.

Denies Endorsement

However, Welsh, chairman of the county commissioners and a top party leader, denied that there was any endorsement of candidates at the meeting.

He said the executive committee would meet March 2 and endorse its candidates. He made the statements this morning after he was informed by the Courieir-Times of the reported endorsement of candidates.

Tullytown

members objected, a heated argument ensued and the councilmen claim they were told that, "If they didn't like it, they could go elsewhere."

Last night, a fire company spokesman told the Courier-Times that the man who made that statement was no longer a member of the fire company.

Last night's rejected peace offers were made in a letter from fire company treasurer Arthur Leigh. He said that the $1,800 rental fee loss would be a "financial hardship" on the fire company.

The result of the feud is a Republican-Democratic coalition or borough council that cites "good government" as its non-political goal.

Political In Fighting

Veteran observers of Tullytown's political infighting see the move out of the fire hall in the old section of the borough as an attempt to end or curtail the influence of that section of the borough.

The old borough comprises about 150 homes on the east side of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. lines. Most of the new section of Tullytown is in Levittown.

The decision to abandon the fire hall was debated heatedly at the meeting. Councilman Anthony Biancosino said, "You could take the new building and put it in this fire hall and still have room to spare."

"I can't understand how you can call this good government when its going to cost more money and the building is no better," Biancosino said.

"Its good government because when a train goes by this fire hall, you can't even hear what's going on," Counciil President Charles Mitchell shot back.

As if to back up his statement, a long freight train zoomed by on the PRR tracks nearby and drowned out the meeting for three minutes.

"Besides that, this place is too hot in the summer," Mitchell added.

Borough Solicitor John Sirott told the Courier-Times that it is legal for the police department to move its headquarters without a council vote so long as council ratifies the action.

Delhaas Joint Board To Process Bills

The Delhaas Joint School Board will hold a special meeting 8 p.m. Thursday to approve payment of bills for the month of January, it was announced today by Mrs. Frances Gauntt, president.

The board will meet in the library of the Benjamin Franklin Junior High School.

The fire, which destroyed a wing of Delhaas High School, disrupted accounting procedures and the bills have not been processed in time for the regular meeting Feb. 4.

TV Set Burns After Western

Some of the smoke that pours from the TV westerns apparently stayed in the set of Elwood Snowden, 31 Great Oak Road, Goldenridge, Levittown, last night.

When Mrs. Snowden tried to change channels after "Wells Fargo" finished its ride at 9 o'clock, the set belched forth smoke.

Mr. Snowden, who was watching from bed with a broken toe, grabbed his young daughter, Debbie, 16 months and hobbled out to the door. He instructed his wife to pull the plug to the TV set and carried the baby outside.

Levittown Fire Company No. 2 responded to the alarm with 25 men. Lt. Norman Scott who directed the activities of the firemen, said the set was ruined but there was no other damage.

The Levittown - Fairless Hills Rescue Squad treated Mrs. Snowden for shock at the scene.

$8,000 More Listed For Expenditures

A proposed record $118,000 budget calling for a two mill tax increase was read at last night's meeting of Tullytown Borough Council. The current tax rate is 13 mills.

But Councilman William Major, who read the budget, said the two-mill tax boost would probably be erased.

The two mills were to have been used to help finance the extension of water and sewer lines into the old section of Tullytown.

$8,000 More

The proposed budget represents $8,000 more in expenditures for the coming year. Major said some of this may be trimmed before the budget comes up again next month.

According to Major, a $5,000 appropriation for the police pension fund is the principal cause for the increased budget.

Police Budget

The police budget for the year is $37,000 which includes a sum set aside for the possible purchase of a new police car. The street and highway fund has been increased from $17,000 to $20,000 in the new budget.

Another item in the budget shows $5,000 set aside for the installation of street and traffic lights compared to $1,500 in last year's budget.

Major, and other council members, joined in expressing dissatisfaction with public reaction to the attempts by council and the Lower Bucks County Joint Municipal Authority to extend water and sewer lines into the old section of the borough, east of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. lines.

Dejected

Council President Charles Mitchell said dejectedly, "If they (the residents) could get it (water and sewer lines) for nothing, some of them might "buy it."

Three attempts were made during the last year to convince the approximately 150 property owners in Old Tullytown to join the water and sewer authority on a voluntary basis.

Major pointed out that the Levitt and Sons firm was willing to chip in $25,000 and the town businessmen were willing to pay more than half the cost. He said estimates indicated the lines could be installed for as little as $600 a property owner.

7 Applicants Remain For Twp. Manager

The number of applicants for the job as Bristol Township manager has been pared down from 50 to seven.

Wayne W. Locke, chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Board of Commissioners, reported his unit went through the applications at a meeting last night and eliminated all but those who seemed best suited.

The remaining applicants will be called in for personal interviews as soon as possible Locke said. He added that it has not yet been decided whether his committee will conduct the initial interviews or whether the full board of commissioners will sit in on them.

Locke said some local applicants are among those who survived the screening process.

Going In Circles

By MAURY ALLEN

The Heart Fund is making a drive for contributions in the Lower Bucks area this month. Area captains are knocking on doors in various sections of the community.

Mrs. Michael Pesce, 16 Pensive Lane, Pinewood, Levittown, is one of the area captains. She announced that a card party will be held Feb. 27 at her mother's home, 509 Berwyn Road, Morrisville. Persons desirous of attending the heart party at the Morrisville home may contact Mrs. Pesce at WI 5-4632 for reservations and information.

Mrs. Pesce knows what money and research can accomplish in the study of heart disease. Her son, Richard, 14, recently went back to school after a delicate "open heart" operation.

Aside to the men drivers who harass the women drivers at Bath Road and Route 13:

There is a traffic light and a dividing island at the intersection. Most of the women drivers stop for the light even after crossing the island. Most of the men pull up behind them and honk their horns as signals for the women to go. Usually the women don't budge until the light changes green. The men do a slow burn.

The official word now comes from the Bristol Township Police. The women are right. Cars don't turn unless there is a green arrow. No arrow on that intersection. So, no turn.

Girl Scouts in the Quincy Hollow section of Levittown are in for a treat tonight. The lucky lassies will watch a real Japanese tea ceremony. The affair will be held at the home of Mrs. Milton Sollott, 71 Queen Lily Road, Quincy Hollow. The girls performing the ceremony have just come from Japan. Apparently they can't speak a word of English, Mrs. Sollott reports. Sounds interesting. Heh, I think I'll go.

Makefield Ok's Bedford Housing Project

28 Houses To Be Built In Township

By ANTHONY PATTERSON
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Lower Makefield Supervisors last night voted to give final approval to a 28-home housing project listed as Bedford, which will be located in the Penn Valley area.

The plans, submitted by builder, George Otto, which had already had preliminary approval at a previous meeting of the supervisors, were reviewed by the boad for final approval last night.

Claude L. Johnson, president of the board, said, in referring to the plans that, "I see no reason for not approving these plans at this time."

At a previous meeting of the supervisors about five residents of the Penn Valley section had turned out to protest Otto's request to put more homes up near the original Penn Valley section.

The residents protested against the measure because of an already existant drainage problem confronting them. They stated that adding more homes to the area would increase their problem.

The board, in other business, heard complaints from residents of the Dobry Road in Southwest corner of the township. They complained of the condition of the road and the lack of attention shown by the township in caring for the roadway.

Frank Gocolinski, a spokesman for the residents, said that he had sent letters and made phone calls to get someone to look into the matter but no action had been taken.

Gocolinski added that, "I've been there 20 years and the road condition seems to get only worse."

Johnson, in answering Gocolinski, said that, "there's been quite a bit of work already done up that way."

Presents Letters

Another spokesman from the Dobry Road section Joseph Bogschutz, leaping to Gocolinski's defense, brought out several letters from other residents unable to attend. He read the letters which also stated complaints of road conditions in that area and then submitted the detters to the board.

A third resident, T. H. McCullough, commented at this time that he felt, "the township should be commendend for its work on the township roads, but I also feel that something should be done about that condition on Dobry Road."

After hearing the complaints of the residents, Johnson instructed William Struwe, township manager, to give further study to the matter.

Herbert Moore of Moore and Lang, builders, asked the Supervisors last night why he was requested to lay curbing along Black Rock Road near the site of the Westover Court project, which the builders are erecting.

Moore said that the road is owned by the state and that to put curbing along that section would be trepassing on his part.

Johnson suggested further study of the matter by Moore & Lang to see if a cheaper way could not be found to put in the curbing. It was also suggested that there might be a possibility of having the state do the job.

In other matters, Peter Campbell, secretary of the board of supervisors read a letter from Henry Hoffmeister, president of the Makefield Civic Association, requesting that white lines be painted on all state highways in the area.

In the letter, Hoffmeister also requested that the supervisors study the possibility of getting a state tropper to patrol the state highway near the Charles H. Boehm High School during events.

This would relieve a township policeman for other duties, added Hoffmeister. The board members agreed to look into the matter.

Also at last night's meeting the board approved a measure to advertise for road materials such as gravel and road oil.

A visitor to the meeting Edwin Woodruff, asked for a few minutes to compliment the supervisors for their handling of the road condition near his home at Reading Ave. and Fairway Drive.

Councilman John V. Sawyer, chairman of the Morrisville police committee, said today that he will maintain his initial stand concerning a proposed police cut. Sawyer said that he would not vote for a nine man-police force with a proposed pay increase.

Sawyer did say, however, that, "I feel the best measure here is an eight-man force to get a $500 increase and a $110 clothing allowance."

He added that this move "would still keep the borough well below the $62,000 police budget."
